Big Crowd Greeted Col. Bryan

Automobile Thief Was Captured

Stolen Car Is Recovered in This City

Leonard Batch, colored, of Monongahela, was arrested in this city late last night by local police, charged with the larceny of an automobile, the property of W. M. Chase of Monongahela City. With him at the time of the arrest were Allen Croslin of 99 Grant street, this city, and Mrs. Mary Mickle, also of this city. They were arrested as accomplices and taken to Monongahela City but the woman was later given her freedom.

Word was received here about an hour previous to the arrest that a seven passenger Buick had been stolen from in front of the Chase residence and the local police were told to be on the lookout for the missing car. The automobile was located in front of the Star theatre with Batch at the wheel and he was placed under arrest.

Chief Tarbrott of Monongahela City was notified and with Mr. Chase came to this city and identified the car and made charges against the men. It is claimed that Batch was hired yesterday to wash the car and later, the same evening, he took the machine, evidently for a joy ride and came to this city to give his friends a ride. The car was taken from in front of the Chase home shortly after eight o'clock and at 10:30 the man was placed under arrest. Both Batch and Croslin are in the Monongahela City jail and will be charged with the larceny of the machine.

Former Teacher Dead

Word was received here last evening of the death yesterday afternoon at 1:30 of Miss Madeline Hunt, aged 24, at the home of her parents, in Elizabeth. Death was due to pneumonia, from which the deceased had suffered for some time. She was conscious up until the time of her death and realizing that the end was near, she made final preparations for her funeral which will take place tomorrow. The deceased was for several years a teacher in the local public schools and is well and favorably known here.

Slaughter Continues

The slaughter of strayed dogs continues in this city and five additional dead canines were added to the list yesterday by the police who are making a general roundup of all dogs running at large in violation of the recent proclamation of Burgess Stewart, enforcing a quarantine on dogs for one hundred days.

First Son Born

—Frank Lohman of the firm of J. A. Lohman & Son, architects, is the proud father of a boy baby, which arrived at his home last evening. The new arrival tipped the scales at 7 3-4 pounds and according to Grand Pa J. A. Lohman, who is equally as enthusiastic over the addition to the family, is a regular fellow and will soon be able to take his place in the firm.

Beaten to Death

(By United Press)

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 24.—Francis Crockett, 7 years, was beaten to death by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury. The little girl died suddenly yesterday under suspicious circumstances and an investigation showed the little body covered with wounds and a number of partially healed scars proved that the child had been the victim of previous inhuman treatment. The Fosters reside at Laurel, near here.

More Reductions

(By United Press)

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Textile manufacturers here announced a reduction in the price of cotton sheeting and yarn of 30 to 40 per cent. The manufacturers operating the largest plants in the country said prices would be cut to meet the reduction of New England manufacturers. The Shenandoah, Mohawk and Utica mills have only been operating four days a week.

Tomorrow afternoon the championship of the City Base Ball League will be settled when the Pittsburgh Steel and Business Men clash in what will probably be the final game of the season. Both teams are now tied for first place honors.

NOTICE

Mr. Rizzuto will hold a big dance Saturday evening of this week at which time a solid gold lavaliere will be presented to a lady and a solid gold ring to a gentleman. Mr Rizzuto will continue to give lessons on any musical instrument. 22-6t fp

Verdict Not Guilty

A sealed verdict, rendered by a jury in Uniontown yesterday morning acquitted B. Briatico, of Belle Vernon of charges of manslaughter and operating an automobile while intoxicated. The case was called on Tuesday and occupied two days hearing. Many witnesses testified in regards to the accident which occurred on the National Pike on July 25 and which resulted in the death of three persons and the injury of the accused.

The dead were friends of Briatico and were members of a party of Belle Vernon people who left by auto to spend the day in the mountains and on the return trip, while traveling down the mountains at a high rate of speed, the automobile driven by Briatico collided with another machine and turned completely over, killing two members of the party instantly, while the third died the following day in the Uniontown hospital.

Making Improvements

The Olympia Billiard Parlors are undergoing a number of improvements for the coming season that will add much to the pleasure and comfort of the patrons of this popular place. Manager Lebowitz has left nothing undone towards making the place pleasant and comfortable and a record season is expected with an Olympic bowling league already under way. The alleys have been scraped and schaced and will be thrown open to the bowlers Saturday evening. The interior of the large room has been repainted by A. Bonisi, who displayed his artistic talents in the beautiful scen effects that grace the walls surrounding the room.

Capture Prisoners

(By United Press)

London, Sept. 24.—Polish troops captured 1,100 Lithuanians during a fierce battle along the Mechawier river, according to a communique received here. Soviet regiments composing Letts and Germans troops are reported fighting against the Poles in the Grodek region.

Company Dissolved

The Perry Oil & Gas company of West Newton, having leases on the Munson and Samuels farms in Rostraver township, will make five tests on a deposit of sand which is said to be on the property. This action follows the bringing in of a duster on the Munson farm, one on Sample's best well, and the unfavorable results of tests made in the district by other companies.

Seeking Information

A letter has been received at the office from J. G. Nasal at Hampton Roads, Va., in which he asks the aid of this paper in locating his mother, whom it is thought resides in this city. He asks that if the mother is located that the correspondence with him at the following address: J. G. Nasal, Naval Operating Base, Unit B, Co. 203, Hampton Roads, Va.

BRYAN SCORED PLATFORM OF BOTH GREAT POLITICAL PARTIES IN SPEECH HERE

William Jennings Bryan, world renowned orator and lecturer, opened the season's entertainment coure at the High school auditorium here last night. The great spell binder was greeted with a crowded house, also the enthusiasm characteristic of a Monessen audience on occasions of this kind. Every available space was taken in the auditorium and for almost two hours the crowd listened attentively to the speaker who prefaced his remarks with a little humor and the assurance that his speech would not be political. His lecture embraced education, religion and popular government and he spoke in part as follows:

"You may not understand how difficult it is for one with a message to find a hearing. If he desires to make a political speech he can do so at meetings arranged by the party committee but these meetings usually cover only about two months' time every two years, or, at most, about three months' time in presidential campaigns. Outside of these periods opportunities for the discussion of political questions are rare.

If one desires to speak on religious subjects he can usually find an opportunity in his own church, but there are so many different denominations that the opportunity, thus afforded is necessarily limited, and there are many subjects not entirely appropriate for a campaign meeting not yet entirely religious, but vitally connected with the public welfare. The Chautauqua platform is broad enough for the consideration of any question affecting human welfare and the progress of civilization.

I am not content however, to spend the entire hour on political questions. At my age one cannot know how much longer it will be possible to make tours of the country as I have been making since 1895, and I am not willing to discuss merely the ephemeral things that engage our attention in campaigns. Looking back over thirty years of active participation in politics I note that each campaign has had its paramount issue—an issue that absorbed attention for a time, and then disappears. I shall be disappointed if I am not able to so burn into your minds and hearts a great moral principle that you cannot forget it while you live. I desire to begin my address with a principle so important and so permanent that the discussion of it will be as appropriate two thousand years from now, as now. If you ask why I am so sure of its enduring interest my answer is that it is as important today as when Christ laid emphasis upon it nineteen hundred years ago. As you may suspect, this truth is taken from the Bible and I digress a moment to add that the Bible differs from all other books in that it never wears out. Other books are read and laid aside, but no matter how familiar you are with the Bible some new truth is likely to spring out at you from its pages whenever you open it—or some old truth will impress you as it never did before.

Someone has described ingratitude as a meaner sin than revenge—the explanation being that revenge is repayment of evil with evil, while ingratitude is repayment of good with evil. If you want revenge upon one, it is because he has injured you first, and the law takes note of provocation. Ingratitude is a lack of appreciation of a favor shown it is indifference to a kindness done and ingratitude is so common a sin that few have escaped the sin for a year without using the story of the Ten Lepers, as the basis of a sermon and one could sit in any church there every Sunday in the year without hearing some old testament personage. Nearly all men of reputable birth with a child's love into the world the good qualities of all their parents for years it could not have had its effect on and devoted care of the duties of those who stand in the place of parents. If when grown up it becomes difficult to fix its heart gross evil, and it is unprofitable it arouses unnatural indignation. Poets, writers of prose and educational orators in their efforts to condemn an ungrateful child Shakespeare's reference to it is probably the one most quoted. He says: 'How sharper than a serpent's tooth is a thankless child!'

As a matter of fact, we cannot, nor can we ourselves, expect many more to be born of a race with centuries of civilization back of it than anything that we ourselves can contribute. And, next to that which we inherit, comes that which enters our lives through environement of youth. In this country the child is so surrounded by opportunities and by the coercions that compel it to take advantage of these opportunities, that it enters school as early as the law will permit. It does not GO to school, it is SENT to school, and we are so anxious that it shall lose no time that, if there is ever a period in the child's life when the mother is uncertain as to its exact age, this is the time. I heard of a little boy, who, when asked how old he was replied, "I am five on the train, seven in school and six at home." The child is pushed through grade after grade and, according to the statistics, a little more than ninety per cent of the children drop out of school before they are old enough to decide educational questions.

Taking the country over, a little less than one in ten of the children who enter our graded schools ever enter high school, and not quite one in fifty enter college or university. As many who enter college drop out before the course is completed. I am not far from the truth when I say that only one young man in one hundred continues his education until he reaches the age of 21—when the law assumes that his reason is mature. I am emphasizing these statistics in order to show that we are indebted to others more than to ourselves for our education; even those who secure an education in spite of difficulties have received from someone the idea that makes them appreciate the value of an education.

When we are born we find an educational system here—we do not devise it, it was devised by a generation long since dead. When we are ready to attend school we find a school house already built; we do not build it, it was erected by the tax payers, many of whom are dead. When we are ready for instruction we find teachers prepared; they were prepared by others, many of whom have passed to their reward.

How do we feel when we complete our education? Do we count the cost to others and think of the sacrifices they have made for our benefit? Do we estimate the strength that education has brought to us and feel that we should put that strength under heavier loads? We are raised by our society to an intellectual eminence from which we can secure a clearer view of the future, do we feel under obligation to act as watchmen upon the tower and warn others of the dangers that they do not yet discern? We should, but do we? I venture to assert that more than nine out of ten of those who receive their liberal education are as ungrateful as the nine lepers, of whom the Bible tells us—they received, they enjoy, but they give no thanks.

I can platform and found that the plank against the profiteer was the shortest plank in the platform. It contained but one sentence, and that sentence contained but eighteen words, and they did not mean anything. I was disappointed but could understand the embarrassment under which the party labored.

It is much easier for a party to punish wrong doing in the opposite party than among its own members. I heard a story thirty years ago that illustrates this embarrassment. A man went into a clothing store and, when the merchant was not looking, put on a coat and ran out. The merchant caught sight of him and as he went out the door and shouted stop. Then a policeman joined in the stop. Then a policeman joined in the chase but still the thief did not stop. Finally, the policeman drew his revolver and shouted: "Stop, or I will shoot." The merchant became excited and grabbing the policeman, protested, "If you do shoot shoot him in the pants the coat belong to me." That was the trouble at Chicago. Nearly all the profiteers were there as delegates, or in the gallery or at the Blackstone. Of course, the convention was embarrassed—any convention would be under the same circumstances.

Then I hurried out to San Francisco, confident that our convention would give to the consuming public that protection which the Republican convention had refused to give. I prepared a plank against the profiteers, proposing the remedies which seems to be adequate but the resolutions committee turned the plank down. As committees do not always reflect the sentiment of conventions I took the plank before the convention and the convention turned it down even more emphatically. It seemed as if all the profiteers who were not at Chicago had reached San Francisco before I did, and some of the big ones were at both places.

We must not expect the government to be perfect, no matter what party is in power. When the Democrats are in power I can prove by all the Republicans that the government is not perfect; when the Republicans are in power—no proof is necessary. If the government were made perfect today, it would be made imperfect tomorrow. New laws are necessary to meet new conditions; even the constitution requires change occasionally. We boast of the wisdom of those who wrote the constitution but the wisest provision they framed was that in which they reserved to their descendents the right to change what they have done. A constitution belongs not to the dead but to the living; each generation has the right to protect itself and advance its welfare by any constitutional changes that may be deemed necessary.

I went to San Francisco, happy in the hope of using the Republican platform as a warning when I could not use it as an incentive to stimulate our conscience. I prepared a dry plank, not a harsh one but a plank heartily congratulating the party upon its splendid leadership in submitting prohibition and pledging it to its enforcement, honestly and in good faith, without any increase in the alcoholic content of permitted beverages and without any weakening of the provisions of the Volstead law. The committee rejected my dry plank and I carried the fight into the convention where I was overwhelmingly defeated and [illegible] wet candidate on a wet platform. Let us Republicans boast that we can [illegible] better than ours; I will guarantee that, by any standard of measurement [illegible] they will [illegible] But the people [illegible] hundred per cent wet, if not more. Both have stepped off their platform to assure the voters that congress has the right to enforce the enforcement law. What promise could they have had to [illegible] to pledge every [illegible] to any bill passed by [illegible]

The failure of the two conventions to take a stand on the prohibition question [illegible] the confusion [illegible] to the wets by the issue in every congressional district and in every state in which a senator is to be elected. The drys must see to it that their full strength is polled for the candidates for the House and Senate even if they have to go outside of the party to secure [illegible] will be inflicted on the guilty.

Schedule for High School is Announced

The local High school football season will open Saturday afternoon of next week when the strong Morgantown High School will be the attraction. Coach Townsend has had a hard time arranging a schedule this season as very few teams wished to stack up against the locals, owing to their showing last season, when they defeated leading school teams of the Pittsburgh district by large scores and fought their way to the finals for the W. P. I. A. L. championship only to lose out to the Washington High. Eleven letter men were lost by graduation last season, but this fact evidently does not remedy matters and teams fear to clash with Monessen, even Washington High refusing to play the return engagement on local grounds this season.

Despite the fact that practically two thirds of last year's team will not be in the lineup this year, Coach Townsend as usual has built a strong combination around Capt. Hannigan, Pinky Schmidt, Myford, Veschio, Anderson and Lebowitz, the remaining players of the old squad. A large number of candidates reported for the team this season and so keen has been the competition that hardly one position is yet certain and it may take several games before the regulars are determined.

Following the game with Morgantown the Carnegie Freshmen will be the attraction the following Saturday and then the team will travel to McKeesport for its first out of town contest. The schedule as arranged for the season is as follows:

Oct. 2.—Morgantown H. S., here.
Oct. 9.—Carnegie Tech Freshmen, here.
Oct. 16.—McKeesport, away.
Oct. 23.—California Normal, here.
October 30.—Donora, here.
Nov. 6.—Monongahela, away.
Nov. 13.—Oakmont, here.
Nov. 20.—Uniontown, away.

Offered Premiership

Paris, Sept. 24.—Georges Leygues French minister of marine, was offered the premiership today by President Millerand. Leygues left the Champs Elysee to consult friends with the understanding he would return in a half-hour with his reply.

Leygues also will act as minister of foreign affairs. It was reported he will make no changes in the present cabinet. The appointment caused considerable surprise in well informed circles where it was believed generally that Aristide Briand would be the choice of the new president.

Elks Dance

The Elks home at Charleroi was the scene of a pretty social affair last evening, when over three hundred people crowded into the building to enjoy an informal dance. Guests were present from all parts of the valley and the dance floor was overcrowded. Lunch was served throughout the evening and with music being furnished by the Waring orchestra, a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

Visit Harding

(By United Press)

Marion, Ohio, Sept. 24.—West Virginia is scheduled to send a large delegation to hear Harding deliver one of his front porch speeches today. Advance information stated that 1,500 would come, mostly by motor to hear the presidential nominee speak. The delegation will mostly be comprised of Republicans from Wheeling, Huntington and Parkersburg.

Postpone Strike

(By United Press)

London, Sept. 24.—The British miners have agreed to postpone their nation wide strike, scheduled for Monday one week during which time leaders of the unions will confer with the owners of the collieries regarding [illegible] of the mines.

Costly Experiment

(By United Press)

Rome, Sept. 24.—Seven lives have been lost in the preliminary stages of Italy's industrial experiment, according to a dispatch from Turin today. Blood was spilled in clashes between royal forces and red guards, the latter supporting workmen in their occupation of seized factories. Four police and three reds were killed. The industrial situation through out Italy was unchanged today except in minor details. Premier Giolitti was reported much annoyed at labor's failure to keep its agreement to evacuate factories pending enactment of a labor control bill but no government action to compel obedience was anticipated.

Workmen said their refusal to vacate the plants was due to failure of their leaders and the premier to arrange payment for work done in the period of occupation.

Only one plant in Milan hauled down the red flag of occupation.

Additional seizures were reported from other sections of Italy. Elsewhere the statements echoed those of the Leghorn occupants of the ship yards—"there must be payment for the period of occupation before we will leave the yards."

Senator Conti arrived here today to discuss with the premier the matter of prosecuting strikers guilty of crimes during occupation.

Entertains Friends

Mrs. Kate C. Dericksor delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon at fancy work at her home on McKee avenue. Forty-six guests were present and enjoyed the afternoon which in addition to fancy work was featured by several vocal selections by Miss Clara Hart and a piano solo by Miss Rhudell Shuster. A dainty three course lunch was served by the hostess who was assisted in serving by Mrs. H. E. Gress and Mrs. William Lewis. The home was tastefully and artistically decorated in cut flowers and palms and ferns.

Runaway Auto

Quite a little excitement was caused yesterday morning when a Ford grocery truck ran away on Twelfth street and traveling down the steep incline at a terrific rate of speed, struck a telegraph post splitting it from top to bottom and also breaking it off near the ground. The machine was badly demolished in the collision and groceries were sent flying in all directions. Fortunately no one was injured. The driver of the truck, a young lad had just stepped from the machine when the brakes refused to work and it started down the hill, striking the pole on Morgan avenue.

Banish Guilty

London, Sept. 24.—The government, urged by popular condemnation of police reprisals in Ireland, began an investigation today. It was announced the investigation will be thorough and that stern punishment will be inflicted on the guilty.

Murderer of Girl-Wife to Face Trial

Chicago, Sept 25—Charged with murdering his girl wife of a year and of slaying a "ragged stranger" whom he is alleged to have hired to stage a fake holdup so he could kill his wife Carl Wandere ex army lieutenant, is scheduled to go on trial for his life here October 4

The Wandeter case was given nation wide publicity because of the mystery attached to it Wanderer, just out of the army was working in his father's butcher shop One night according to the first story he told police he returned home with his wife to find a ragged dressed stranger standing in the vestibule of their home. The "ragged stranger" police told them to throw up their hands

Wandeter stated it was dark in the vestibule. Instead og complying with the strangers demand Wanderer fired When the police arrived they found the young wife and the alleged holdup man dead

Wanderer for a time convinced the police he was telling the truth until they traced the ownership of the pistol used by the "ragged stranger" It was found that the revolver had originally been sold to Wandeter

After a grueling cross-examination Wandeter is alleged to have confessed to State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne that he had killed both He killed his wife, about to become a mother because, according to the altered confession, he was tired of civilian life and wanted to get back in the army

"It's softer life in the army" he is said to have told interviewers

He killed the "ragged stranger," he said because he wanted to prevent any "double crossing"

According to the story police say Wandeter told them he hired the stranger in a West Madison street lodging house for three dollars To date his body has not been identified, though it has been lying in the county morgue for many months

Following the alleged confession Wandeter stated he didn't care what happened to him He said his mind was at rest and he was ready for the walk to the gallows

The state plans to demand that he be hung

Much Property Still Under Custody

Washington, Sept. 24.—Approximately $460,000,000 worth of property seized from German and Austrian owners when the U. S. got into the war still is under the trusteeship of Alien Property Custodian Garvan, it was estimated here today.

According to this estimate, something like $300,000,000 worth of property has been returned to its owners under the amendment to the Trading-With-The-Enemy act passed last fall by Congress. Exact details of the transactions will not be available until Garvan makes his annual report to Congress.

Future disposition of the property still held is one of the problems that will confront the Congress which settles the question of the peace treaty.

The property still held, which includes hundreds of going concerns manufacturing practically every product from chemicals to steel, now is piling up profits which further complicate the problem of what disposition to make. These profits now are being invested in Liberty bonds and government securities subject to the decision oftrfv f.d mgMFW to the direction of the Treasury department.

Approximately 25,000 persons of German and Austrian origin were interested in the property seized by the alien property custodian. A smaller number of Americans are, or were, owners of property seized by Germany when the U. S. entered the war. Provision for return of this American property by Germany is made in the peace treaty. But to the fact that the U. S. has not ratified the treaty, no returns have yet been made by the Germans.

When France, Great Britain and Italy approved the treaty, their governments at once began arrangements to credit Germany with the value of the property held.

Woman Thinks She Is Privileged To Talk

"If any one ever had a miserable stomach I surely had. It was growing worse, too, all the time. Had severe pains and attacks every ten days or two weeks and had to call a doctor who could only relieve me for a short while. Two years ago last February I took a treatment of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and I have not had a spell of pain or misery since. My friends just wonder that I am looking so well. I feel I am privileged to talk about it." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. REPUBLICAN IN POLITICS

LET US PAINT ROSEATE THE FUTURE

"One of our weaknesses seems to be that we make pedestals somewhat easily and then put men on them before we are sure that such men deserve it, or that the pedestal will hold them."

In these words a reader hits on a truth in which there is much food for thought. There is much to be said for enthusiasm; there is much to be said for the ability which leads men to see in imagination a $10,000 a year business grow into one which yields a million a year. Some of the most splendid achievements of our day started first as an ardent wish or dream, which, when it had gathered enough force, became a reality. When Balboa first laid the idea of a Panama canal before the emperor of Spain and made surveys in 1515 men no doubt looked on this explorer as a visionary with more imagination than good sense. Today the canal is as real and practicable as a city street.

Our quest for happiness would be futile indeed if we were not so able and willing to forget past disappointments and with a liberal use of imaginary material, rebuild stately mansions on the ruins of the old. It is not merely what we do this hour that lays the foundation for our future; our achievements in years to come derive their importance and dimensions somewhat from our plans and hopes and yearnings. As someone has said, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's Heaven for?"

And still this reaching out is not without its dangers. Disappointment and heartache lie in store for him who in his fitful reaching out overlooks the things which may be grasped and must be held so that the future may not prove altogether visionary. "Extend your reach but make sure of your grasp," is a philosophy counseled by the wisdom of years.

Whether we will or not, we must paint roseate the future; which is akin to putting men on pedestals. An innate human craving is not satisfied until we do. And men grow in stature in proportion to what we think of them. Scoff and jeer at them long enough and all but a few of them will think the scoffs and jeers merited, and every one of them will fall somewhat short of his best, because we withhold from him the confidence without which great things are often done. The man who weighs to a nicety another's efforts and exhibitions and leaves no margin of good will and hope, contributes nothing to progress.

Sure pedestals we must have, it is wise to make sure that the men whom we place on them are not elevated beyond all reason; to make sure when we select our leaders that they can in some measure fulfill our expectations but we must not withdraw from them at the slightest whim the support which they need to carry a difficult task to completion.

PLAYING FOOTBALL

Anxious parents frequently become worried on learning that their sons are playing on a football team. They have been told it is a rough game, and they live in trepidation, lest most any day he be carried in on stretchers with a broken leg or worse.

There is some risk about every active form of exercise. Indeed there is more risk about inactive habits, as far more men die from lack of exercise than from any injuries received in sport. While some few football players are seriously hurt, yet the vast majority of them come through all right, and are the better for their training. Probably the average longevity of football players is above the average life.

However, football is a sport that needs close supervision, as there are chances in it for underhand work. Schools and colleges should see to it that the games are strictly umpired and fair play maintained. Those who don't play a clean game, are not entitled to a place on any team.

Also all players ought to have physical examinations, to make sure they are up to the strain of this sturdy sport. Most of the accidents occur in the smaller and less conspicuous games, in which untrained players are participating.

The boy who goes through the football mill gains physical courage and endurance. He should learn self control and ability to take hard knocks without flinching. If he is able to keep his temper in the rough and tumble, he has acquired a quality that will be tremendously useful. Of course, many school and college boys give a lot of time and thought to football that ought to go into their studies. Nevertheless this type of fellow might not be a bookworm anyway. Probably if football was abolished, he would find much worse uses for his time.

Never before in the history of housekeeping has the masculine element devoting so much time to cleaning up the cellar.

Not merely are the candidates getting throat trouble, but some of the voters find difficulty in swallowing the things presented to them.

PEOPLE SICK LAST YEAR WILL SURELY HEED DRUGGISTS' ADVICE THIS FALL AND FORTIFY SYSTEM WITH GOOD TONIC

By Strengthening System — Enriching Blood and Improving Digestion—Thousands Wisely Prepare for Changeable Winter Weather

SAID TO BE THE MOST POWERFUL TONIC OF ITS KIND BY CHEMISTS AND EXPERTS

A Tonic Wards Off Colds, Coughs And More Serious Ills

WHOLE FAMILIES USE IT AGAIN THIS YEAR

People in a rundown condition should heed the druggists' advice and put their system in the pink of physical condition if they wish to avoid sickness, winter colds, coughs and more serious ills this fall and winter.

Weak, frail people are always the first to become ill. With a good tonic however, a person can soon build up and strengthen their system and thus fortify themselves against wintry weather, chills, colds, coughs, fevers etc., etc.

The blood can be enriched very nicely in a little while and with plenty of warm, rich, red blood a person doesn't mind the cold or wet weather. The digestion can be stimulated and improved to take care of the heavier winter foods, meats, hot cakes, etc., which the body needs and a few pounds of good solid flesh is a good idea. Just a little more disease resisting vitality in order that nature may throw off sickness if it should come. In such a healthy, robust condition one feels better, works better and enjoys the crisp fall days and can laugh at coughs, colds and wintry ills. One need not miss a day from work all winter long.

TELLS WHAT TO DO

The druggists are again joining in the educational campaign to revive the wise old habit of our forefathers who always took a good tonic at this particular season of the year. Druggists again assert, also, chemists and experts, that Earle's Hypo-Cod is a most powerful effective and palatable reconstructive tonic. Containing an excellent formula which is plainly printed on each bottle.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is so pleasant to taste. Children like it and how quikly this superb and modern preparation has put people back on their feet in robust health will be told by local users whose statements are to be published in this paper almost daily for the next few months. Be sure and read them.

Earle's Hypo-Cod is said to be the most powerful, effective and reconstructive tonic of its kind made, by chemists, druggists and eminent experts. Each bottle bears the name of the nationally known Earle Chemical Co., which is a guarantee of the finest in medicine.

Watch for the statements of users to appear. Go down to the drug store and procure a bottle or two and join the thousands of wise men and women who take it to build themselves up for the changeable wintry weather to come.

Note: All good druggists sell the genuine Earle's Hypo-Cod in Famous Orange Colored Carton, price, $1.25 plus 3c war tax. 14

REPUBLICAN IN POLITICS

LET US PAINT ROSEATE THE FUTURE

"One of our weaknesses seems to be that we make pedestals somewhat easily and then put men on them before we are sure that such men deserve it, or that the pedestal will hold them"

In these words a reader hits on a truth in which there is much food for thought There is much to be said for enthusiasm, there is much to be said for the ability which leads men to see in imagination a $10,000 a year business grow into one which yields a million a year Some of the most splendid achievements of our day started first as an aidenwish or dream, which, when it had gathered enough force, became a reality. When Balboa first laid the idea of a Panama canal before the emperor of Spain and made surveys in 1515 men no doubt looked on this explorer as a visionary with more imagination than good sense To day the canal is as real and practicable as a city street

Our quest for happiness would be futile indeed if we were not so able and willing to forget past disappointments and with a liberal use of imaginary material, rebuild stately mansions on the ruins of the old It is not merely what we do this hour that lays the foundation for our future, our achievements in years to come derive their importance and dimensions somewhat from our plans and hopes and yearnings As someone has said, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's Heaven for?"

And still this reaching out is not without its dangers Disappointment and heartache lie in store for him who in his fitful reaching overlooks the things which may be grasped and must be held so that the future may not prove altogether visionary 'Extend your reach but make sure of your grasp," is a philosophy counseled by the wisdom of years

Whether we will or not we must paint roseate the future, which is akin to putting men on pedestals An innate human craving is not satisfied until we do And men grow in stature in proportion to that we on stretcher with a broken leg or think of them Scoff and jeer as we will them long enough and all but a few of them will mount the scaffs and jeers or build a fence of them will fall somewhere short of the because we cannot from the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Purpose of Fly's Existence.

The fly is the Judas of animal creation, hated, hatbed, destroyed, the very reason for his existence questioned by querulous mankind. Yet the fly, despised insect that it is, must serve a purpose, for nature makes few mistakes in her creation. That purpose is not hard to find. The fly is nature's agent to remove filth. Filth breeds the fly, so nature decrees it a sign, in order to provide for the removal of that filth. The fly, like the headache, is a result, not a cause. Where there are flies there is filth; remove the filth and the fly will cease to exist.

Delicious Ice Cream

THE LADIES LOVE ICE CREAM especially when it is made by Bertelman's. Our cream, loose and in bricks, appeals to the discriminating women of this town. We make our ice cream "as mother used to" in the old days. Real cream, real fruits, real honest-to-goodness flavor. Try some, won't you? You'll get the "want more" habit.

"I Want Something Good"

That about sums up the average man's clothing preferences. He has no preconceived notions as to style, and, in many cases, as to price.

He may have special leaning towards one color or another—and he may have his particular objection to one or two colors. But, outside of that, he wants "something good."

So, when we sell a man—we make it a point, without telling us, of giving him clothes that insure satisfaction. Just the kind of cut and drape to suit his peculiar "style of beauty."

High-Art Clothes

—they take care of all a man wants to know about clothes. Only here in (Monessen) can you get them.

Artificial Silk Improved.

A new process has been developed whereby the same raw material (wood cellulose) is converted into an imitation silk which, when woven into cloth, has remarkable brilliancy and durability, with a "feel" like that of real silk. It is waterproof and no more inflammable than natural silk. The new process silk can be drawn into much finer threads than those of ordinary artificial silk, and is said to be particularly remarkable for the quality of the velvets made from it.

ENJOY AN EASY SHAVE
